Petitions, requesting the City Council to let the people vote on the question of raising city taxes as much as 5 mills, are available for signatures, "Spoke" Gerard, we understand, is circulating one copy. One copy is at the Trust Bank, another at the GCW. See Spoke, or drop in either of the two places mentioned and sign, if you think that the people should be consulted before such a great increase is authorized in city taxes.

Until October 15th, you may send your favorite newspaper to your soldier boys overseas without the necessity of having him write in making a personal request. Remember also that you have only until October 15 to mail Christmas packages overseas.

Baby has gone.

Two twilight sisters, one fat and the other thin, just passed by.

Folks are learning to park right in Grenada even if they do not like the lessons or the teacher much.

Better order your Christmas cards (with names neatly printed thereon) soon. We can not print all that will be needed in the last few days before Christmas.

Talking about post war planning, our leaders should RIGHT NOW begin to plan for the occupancy of these emergency houses by workers in some industrial plant.

An article, "Snuff", containing a good deal of material from the GCW's famous "Snuff Dippers" edition, is due to appear in the November issue of ESQUIRE.

The classic concert rendered by the 340th Infantry band Tuesday night received such favorable reception that the concert was repeated Wednesday night.

The candy about major's wife, no, the major's pretty wife, no more, no it, the pretty blond wife of the major bought me a coke recently.

Somebody told me that Bilbo went to Washington this week to spend a few days. Bilbo seems to bear the same relation to the U. S. Senate as I did to the U. S. Army in France—that is, "attached for quarters, rations and pay," and not for duty. I hope our esteemed senator enjoys his visit there.

NOW is the time of time to pay off all debts. If you have enough money to pay your entire bank loan, do so; or, if you have enough to make more than one payment, do so. These good times will not last forever. With the '20s in mind, do not mortgage your debt-free property to buy more property—then lose all of it. Remember the dog with a nice bone in his mouth, who, while crossing a stream on a foot log, saw another dog below, jumped in and lost BOTH bones.

Put all of this stuff that you hear in regard to the camp as what we army fellows call "latrine dope."

The ladies of Grenada are to be sincerely congratulated for raising almost $120,000.00 of the $200,000.00 quota. They got their sales the hard way, that is, in sales of small bonds and stamps. The negroes, too, are to be commended for their splendid cooperation.

Brother J. F. Gordon, of Dubard, set his fellow Dubardians a fine example recently by renewing.

By actual count, we have added 35 new subscribers during the past three weeks. Some go east, some go west, and some go over the cuckoo's nest.

The GCW is happy to add to its small complimentary list the Library at the Army Air Base.

Sam Mims and his handsome grandson played as a visit recently.

The dam (some say damn) engineers are still fooling around making surveys and tests.

Some pictures of soldiers, scheduled to appear this week, had to be omitted, and will appear next week.

I am sure that his fellow Jews will be shocked to learn that Mr. Greenfield worked after sundown Wednesday until about midnight. I hope they will pray for him.

Grenada County Far Over The Top In Bond Drive

Chairman B. C. Adams of Grenada County's Third War bond drive announces a grand total of $787,000.00 worth of bonds sold in the campaign. The quota was $650,000.00, or an over subscription of $137,000.00.

Of the above amount the Woman's Division of sales, under the capable leadership of Mrs. E. L. Wilkins, the chairman, sold approximately $118,300.00 in bonds and stamps. This includes the up-town booth, house to house canvass, auction sale and the splendid report sent in by Currie Lee Hoover, Negro citizen who reported for members of her race.

L. C. Howard Died Here Friday, Buried Sunday

After suffering for 11 days from a self-inflicted wound in the breast, Mr. L. C. Howard, 38, died in Grenada Hospital on Friday, September 24, 1943.

He was the youngest son of Mrs. N. H. Howard and the late Mr. N. H. Howard and was born in Carroll county on April 12, 1905. In recent years he and his wife, the former Miss Grace Vance, whom he married May 8, 1938, operated a suburban store just South of the City limits, and they made a nice success of this business as well as of various real estate transactions. In the recent primary he was a candidate for nomination as sheriff of this county.

A writer should write what he knows, not what he hears. L. C. Howard was normally courteous and genial; he paid his debts, and had a fine personality.

Surviving him are his widow; his mother; and eight sisters, Mesdames Lottie Massey, Roy Lamb, Jessie Culam, Bulah Campbell, Donnie Collins, Mary Ashmore, Tommie Hughes and Carrie McCracken.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church of which he was a member, Sunday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Glen E. Wiley, after which interment was had in Woodlawn Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Ruben Woodbridge (of Culberson City), W. R. Whittle, Loyd Vance, W. I. Parks, Clayton Carpenter, Clyde Nall, Walter Young and Earl Dornin.

Sympathy is extended to the bereaved mother and sisters.

Grenada Army Air Field Continues Victories

The Grenada Army Air Field continues its unbroken string of victories when it turned back the Stout Field Indians, 8-3, in a contest played on the losers field this week.

Sergeant John Petrovich was credited with the win, after holding the Stout Field team to one hit in the seven innings he held down the mound duties. Property of the St. Louis Cardinals, Petrovich shared honors with Sergeant Paul Oberley, who drove a terrific line drive over the left field wall, which scored two runners ahead of him, and gave the Grenada team a 3-0 lead which they never relinquished. Oberley's hit was one on the longest hits on record at the Stout Field diamond, clearing the wall by thirty feet and landing in the back yard of a defense plant across the street.

Both teams had gone scoreless until the fourth inning when the Grenada Air Field opened the tallying with successive singles by Sergeants Robert Sipes and Walter Winlars, which was followed by Oberley's drive, putting the game on ice.

The Grenada team scored two tallies in the sixth inning, one in the seventh, and two more in their half of the eighth, ending their batting spree, before Stout Field found the range for their three runs. These were made off Sergeant Ankle Kufin, who relieved Petrovich in the seventh. Grenada made a total of sixteen hits off the Stout Field moundman, while four was the best the Indiana lads could mount.

BOX SCORE
Grenada 000 302 120—8 runs 16 hits.
Stout Field 000 000 000—3 runs 4 hits.

Brenda Jean Mims Died Enroute To Hospital

Little Miss Brenda Jean Mims, daughter of First Sergeant and Mrs. Eugene Mims, died while enroute from her grandparents' home near Osberry to the Grenada Hospital on September 14, 1943. Burial was had at Bethel cemetery the next day.

Her father is somewhere in Italy or Sicily, while her mother is with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cunningham. The child was born December 8, 1942, a few weeks after her father had embarked. The other grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Mims, of Hazelhurst, Georgia.

The little miss, although just about 6 months of age, was almost able to talk.

Mr. Hal Cullen's Father Died Sept. 28th

Mr. L. Cullen, 84, of Oxford, Miss., died at his home Tuesday, September 28, 1943, and burial was held the following day in the Oxford cemetery at 2 o'clock. His wife preceded him in death several years ago, and he leaves a fine family of children and grandchildren to mourn his passing. His son, Mr. H. H. Cullen, and family, of Grenada, attended the last rites, returning home Thursday.

Surviving him are his widow; his mother; and eight sisters, Mesdames Lottie Massey, Roy Lamb, Jessie Culam, Bulah Campbell, Donnie Collins, Mary Ashmore, Tommie Hughes and Carrie McCracken.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church of which he was a member, Sunday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Glen E. Wiley, after which interment was had in Woodlawn Memorial Park.

SHAW MADE CORPORAL
Pfc. James H. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Shaw, Grenada, has been promoted to corporal at Hamilton Field, California, where he is serving with the Air Corps as an assistant crew chief.

Last week we gave a gentle warning to those who are delinquent by not sending a GCW. This was a mild hint that it is time to renew.

Lt. Givhan Made C. O. Of Section Two Hq. Det.

Lt. Givhan, who has been landscape gardener, vegetable gardener, face-lifter and massager of grounds, etc., etc., at Camp McCain has been placed in command of Section 2 of the Headquarters Detachment at Camp McCain. All of these troops, we understand, are colored troops.

Lt. Givhan, a native of the so-called Black Belt of Alabama, is a graduate of Auburn and the University of Chicago, and, before entering service, was county agent in Alabama.

Inasmuch as the members of his command had served approximately a year, he ordered that a real "spread" be given them in honor of their year's service.

Pre-Pearl Harbor Fathers To Be Called

Several months ago State Headquarters Selective Service stated it was felt that no pre-Pearl Harbor fathers would be required for induction prior to January 1, 1944. This statement was based on the estimation of movement of fathers into essential agriculture and industry and release of those so replaced to the Armed Forces.

Because of the fact that such fathers have moved into essential agriculture and industry, it is found necessary to process fathers for induction in November in Mississippi.

Since it requires approximately 30 days to process registrants for induction, many fathers are being reclassified by the local boards and examined by the local doctors at the present time.

The first bona fide Pre-Pearl Harbor fathers to be inducted (other than those who have been eligible heretofore because they left agriculture without a permit, or were engaged in a non-deferrable activity) will be those with low order numbers who are not engaged in any essential activity necessary for the war effort.

The State Director of Selective Service, Colonel Lawrence W. Long, stated today that it was estimated that probably 6,000 fathers would be called for examination at the armed forces induction station during the month of November, and that all local boards would be called upon equally at that time.

Red Cross Grey Ladies Met Monday

The Grey Ladies' Unit of Grenada Chapter of the Red Cross, met at the Presbyterian Church on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with good attendance.

Mrs. F. T. Gerard, Chairman of Volunteer Red Cross workers, greeted the group and presented Mrs. E. R. Pleasants, newly elected Chairman of Grey Ladies' Unit. Mrs. Pleasants introduced the two speakers for the afternoon, Miss Erickson, of Camp McCain, and Rev. C. S. Liles, of Grenada. Miss Erickson's first lecture (time 1 hour and 30 minutes) was about the duties of Grey Ladies and how the Unit functions.

Rev. Liles spoke on the government of the Red Cross and the relationship of citizens to members of the army and navy and all armed forces and the great service done by Red Cross all over the world.

On Tuesday afternoon the group assembled at Camp McCain Station II, and the commanding officer, Col. Campbell, welcomed the group and gave a most instructive lecture.

Commissioner Talbert Makes Reply

After reading the criticism of the expenditures of the present City Administration, in this week's issue of The Grenada County Weekly, by two of our leading citizens, Mr. H. J. Ray and Mr. W. W. Whitaker, editor of the County Weekly, and being part of the present administration, namely head of the street department. And too, the fact that the street department's expenditures are the largest single item in the budget, I feel that the general public should know how their money is being spent in the street department.

To begin with in the years of 1940-41, we had a normal population of 5,800 people and gave them twice weekly service in the residential section and daily garbage service in the business section, which with the additional work of keeping the streets cleaned and repaired and ditches cleaned and many other things that the street department was called upon to do, was a fair size job in itself.

We looked after 13 miles of paved streets, 20 miles of cinder streets and alleys, and 20 miles of drainage ditches, also moved 20232 cu yds garbage, and 3025 cu yds cinders at a cost of approximately 12007.00 or a per capita cost of $2.00 per year per person.

In the years of 1942-43 we served approximately 15000 people with this same service and moved 66792 cu yds garbage and 6430 cu yds cinders at a cost of approximately 25000.00, also we retopped the block pavement 10,000 sq yds that we did not do in 1941, this all was at a per capita cost of 1.06 per person, even though we had a rise in materials and supplies of 35 to 40 percent and labor cost of 35 percent increase and even then our per capita cost was lower than in 1941.

The street department works with the army authorities, also the County Health Unit, and it is at their direction that we move garbage as fast as possible and if it is not moved regularly then restaurants, hotels and stores will be thrown off limits to the soldiers. This has to be maintained as the result of our fault.

Ask yourself these questions: am I operating my business as cheaply as in 1941, are the expenses of my home any more than in the years of 1940-41? Then how can the business of the City be run as cheaply as in those years?

I feel that the street department has been operated as economically as possible under present conditions which are not normal and with the additional soldiers that we enjoy having on overnight passes and on week ends, and I feel sure that the business people of Grenada realize that until we keep Grenada clean that we will be thrown off limits to them. Let us all consider these things well before we are so critical of the things that we of the City Street Department are trying to do. Facts and figures do not lie. Other towns are waiting with open arms to welcome strangers, why not keep our welcome sign out and not close our little City to them?

In closing I would like to say that we have one of the best Mayors that Grenada ever had, a good board and they are trying in every way that they can to do their utmost for the welfare of Grenada. It is your City and we want to do what you want done. But be sure that the public knows facts before you are so quick to criticize. I am sure any department head of the City will give you the facts on what they have accomplished if you will only ask. I too, as a taxpayer and have been for 25 years and think I get more for my money in taxes I pay than anything I spend in Grenada.

Why not be progressive and not stay in one rut always?
J. M. TALBERT,
Street Commissioner.

George Lance, of Paul, Died Sunday

Mr. George Lance, 72 years of age, died in his home near Paul, Tallahatchie County, on Sunday evening, September 20, 1943. He was born, lived his entire life and died in that small community, near Cassella.

His body was buried at Paul cemetery Tuesday afternoon of this week. Four daughters and three sons are among the survivors.

Further details are not available.

I think our spoiled child will be home Friday. Our intelligent child has gone back to Columbia. Mo. Our oldest son, in the hospital at camp, spent Sunday at home. Our youngest son is getting fat—180 lbs.—on moon meat one inch thick and covering a plate in Alaska.

W. C. Campbell, famous raiser of yellow meat water melons has at long last been added to the list.

JESUS AND THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:17-20; 19:16-22; John 5:39, 40.

GOLDEN TEXT—Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill.—Matthew 5:17.

With this lesson we begin a series of studies which should be of unusual value, a consideration of the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus, and other related New Testament passages.

It is appropriate to point out that, far from being outmoded, the Ten Commandments are really the basis of all moral law. They need a diligent restudy and re-emphasis in our day of disregard of moral standards.

As interpreted by the Lord Jesus and applied to our daily living, the truth of these commandments should be brought home to every boy and girl, man and woman in our Bible schools.

We learn here that our Lord did not come to set aside or destroy the law, but to fulfill it in the most complete way. But the gospel takes us a step beyond the law, and it is a great step, for we follow the One who is greater than the law.

I. Built on the Law (Matt. 5:17-20).

The law of God is eternal, never to be abrogated, never set aside. Christ Himself, although we might properly say that He was in reality the Lawgiver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated His purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it. One could wish that those who profess to be His servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or explain it away, and far more ready to accept with their Master every "jot and tittle," that is, even the minutest detail of His Word.

Recognizing Christ as the fulfillment of the law should prepare one to manifest obedience to every moral precept through His grace.

II. More Than the Law (Matt. 19:16-22).

Obedience to the commandments brings a man up to the very entrance upon life, but to enter in, he must have more than the "things" of the law; he must have the Person who is "the Door" to eternal life.

The young man who came to Christ was rich. His mind was obsessed with things. He had made it his business to observe the law, and had done well (v. 20), but his soul was not satisfied. He thought one more "thing" to do would accomplish his purpose.

The general attitude of the man was commendable. He sensed his lack of the vital something which would remake his life. He came to the right one—the Lord Jesus—with his question.

His failure to go beyond the things of the law to a faith in Christ, however, showed that he loved his possessions more than he desired to follow the Lord.

Those in our day who are trying to please God and gain eternal blessedness by works, by doing things and keeping commandments, need to recognize that in Christianity we have the One who is more than the law. They need to look away from things to be done, to the great thing that was done once and for all on Calvary.

III. Greater Than the Law (John 5:39, 40).

The Scriptures are great because they bear witness to the Christ who can give life. But obviously the One to whom they bear witness is greater than they are.

Paul speaks of the law as a "schoolmaster to bring us to Christ" (Gal. 3:24). The picture is literally of a servant charged with bringing the child to school where he may learn the truth. So the law convicts man of sin, makes him conscious of his own utter inability to meet God's requirements, and makes him ready to turn to Christ in faith and repentance (Rom. 3:20).

These men of our Lord's time were very religious. They spent much of their time searching the Scriptures that they might find eternal life. But most of them failed to understand that the life they sought was in the One who stood before them—Jesus of Nazareth—and not in the letter of the law.

This has a vital bearing on the proper study of the lessons of this quarter. "The time has passed when men might seek life in the Scriptures apart from Jesus. Now that Jesus has come, life can be found only if the Scriptures lead one to Jesus."

"If our study of the Scriptures does not bring us to Christ, then it is vain indeed. For that reason we cannot study the Ten Commandments without turning constantly to Jesus as the One greater than the law" (Lesson Commentary).

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

HANGING MIRROR

Question: How can I make a neat job of putting nails or hooks in a plastered wall, so that I can hang a couple of mirrors?

Answer: Nails should not be driven into plastered walls. To hang your mirrors, holes should be drilled into the plaster, wall plugs or anchors inserted and screws used. A hardware store can supply you with these articles. If the mirrors are not too large and heavy you can use a sharply pointed nail, especially made for this purpose, which has a hook attached. These can be had in large or small sizes from a hardware dealer. If the mirrors are very heavy, it might be better to hang them from the picture molding (if there is one), using picture wire or cord. (The wire may be hard to get.)

Here is the way one of our readers runs a screw into a plaster wall: "Mark the position and drill a hole about the size of the screw. Wood putty is then packed into the hole, and after hardening overnight the screw is run into it. This method has held a great deal of weight around my house without any failures. When you move the screws can be taken out, leaving the wall in a neat condition."

PAINTING A DOOR

Question: I have been attempting a painting job on some of our doors and am making heavy weather of it. The paint does not flow evenly, but streaks and blobs. What ought I to do?

Answer: It is almost impossible to paint a door evenly when it is in position; it should be taken off its hinges and laid flat on boxes or sawhorses at a convenient height for working. When the door is laid flat the paint will flow evenly.

Storing Furniture

Question: I want to store my kitchen, living and bedroom furniture. Would it be all right to store it in an unheated upstairs room? Do you think the coldness would ruin the finish or warp the furniture? And what effect would the cold have on the mirror of a vanity?

Answer: Low temperatures will not harm the furniture, but you should take every precaution against dampness. Before storing the furniture clean and polish it, and then cover with a heavy kraft paper to keep dust off the surfaces. The refrigerator should be cleaned and put away with the door partly open. Cover the bare metal parts of the stove with a light oil to prevent rusting. If the mirror is of good quality it will stand up under all conditions.

Insulated Hot-Air Ducts

Question: The warm-air ducts from our furnace are covered with the usual sheet asbestos. Dust clings to this surface and is very hard to remove. Can this covering be painted, to give a hard surface that can be cleaned easily?

Answer: Asbestos insulating materials are very porous and, because of this, are difficult to paint. The following method will be fairly successful: After brushing off the dust, apply a thin coat of shellac (if you can get it), thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol. When dry, finish with a coat of brushing lacquer. If lacquer cannot be obtained, apply a coat of flat paint followed by a coat of quick-drying enamel.

Spots on Linoleum

Question: How can I remove spots from my linoleum floor? Neither soap nor kitchen cleaners have any effect upon them. They seem to form under chair and table legs. The linoleum has been waxed.

Answer: Try rubbing gently with turpentine and very fine steel wool. Then, when spots have been removed, touch up with a little paste wax, allow to dry hard and then polish.

Touch-Up on Chairs

Question: My black enameled chairs are chipped off in a few spots to the bare wood, and also are slightly smeared with white paint. How can I touch up these places without damaging the undercoating?

Answer: Rub the chipped spots with fine steel wool; wipe with benzine, being careful of fire, and then touch up with matching enamel, building up the chipped area to the surrounding level. Then wipe with turpentine. If the finish is dulled rub with a little paste wax.

Marine Fliers Triumph Over Perils of Air and Sea; Combat Correspondents Recount Tales of Heroism

Sergeant Survives After 32 Days on Barren Islands

For 72 days he was "missing in action." His comrades in a marine corps flying unit in the Guadalcanal area had long given up hope of seeing him again. But Sergeant Bill Coffeen came back. Shaggy and lean, he stepped out of a navy rescue plane. He told of surviving storms, blistering sun and infection and living for 32 days on a coconut diet. The last 40 days he was missing, friendly natives cared for him.

Today Staff Sgt. William I. Coffeen Jr., 33, whose parents live at 5348 North Lotus street, Chicago, Ill., is at a naval base hospital being treated for malaria and malnutrition.

"I got off on the wrong foot that morning of April 13 and ended up the same way," began Coffeen. "My plane barely missed the treetops as I took off from Henderson Field. A guide light at the end of the strip blinded me. We were to escort navy torpedo bombers on a mission."

"Within sight of land between Kolombangara and Choiseul islands, I suddenly noticed my engine smoking. My oil line was leaking."

"Losing altitude rapidly and fearing the motor would explode, I decided to bale out."

"It seemed that I hit the water just a few seconds after my parachute opened."

"I pulled the cord on my life jacket, but it failed to inflate. It had been punctured. I pulled my rubber raft out and inflated it. The paddle was missing."

"The water was calm, but 30 minutes later a storm hit. High waves tossed my small rubber raft about like a toothpick, and overturned it. Into the water went all of my medical supplies and emergency rations. All I had left was the clothing I was wearing, and my hunting knife and pistol."

"After I righted the raft I started paddling with my hands. I still was in sight of land. In mid-afternoon I heard the familiar drone of our fighter plane motors—it was my flight returning from the strike on which I had set out that morning."

"Several of the planes flew low and almost directly over me. I fired five shots from my pistol and waved the white raft sail, but they failed to see me."

"I started paddling with my hands toward land. On the way, sharks swished by the raft."

"I slept in a sitting position that night. Long before daybreak I started again for land. The sea was calm. Near sundown the second day out, I finally reached the shore of a small island. I was exhausted, hungry and thirsty. When I reached the beach of the coconut grove island I realized I made a grave mistake by tossing my shoes overboard after the storm. My socks were the only protection for my feet."

"I gathered two coconuts, cut holes in them with my knife, drank the juice, then broke them open and ate the meat. It was the first liquid and food I had had in nearly 48 hours."

"I stayed on this island three days. It was uninhabited and I knew I would die if I stayed there."

"Far away I could see a larger island and decided on the fifth day to strike out for it. I was growing weak from the coconut diet."

"After hand-paddling along the coast all that day with a blazing sun baking me, I made the next island at dusk. It was studded with coconut trees like the first island."

"Next morning I decided to try for another island. It took me all that day to reach it. It was the same story when I landed there—no food, no fresh water, no life."

Arm and Foot Infected

"My left arm was swollen to twice its normal size overnight. My right foot was also infected. I realized blood poison was developing, so I cut open the source of infection with my knife, and bathed my arm in salt water for more than an hour. I was relieved somewhat and decided to move on. That morning I tried to drink coconut juice, but I just couldn't get it down."

"As I paddled along the shore I saw what appeared to be a red-roofed house near the end of the island."

"The house proved a greater distance away than I had estimated;

(Editor's note: The following two stories were written by Combat Correspondents of the United States Marine Corps. Typical of the work of these fighting writers, the first was by Staff Sergeant William I. Coffeen Jr., as told to Staff Sergeant Harry Bolser. The second was written by Sergeant Pan T. Johnson.)

When night fell I still was several miles from it. But I had something to look forward to—and I slept better that night."

"I reached the beach near the house at mid-afternoon of the next day. I hid my raft in the bush and approached the building, fearful that it was occupied by Japs. I saw a sign that read 'Solomon Developing Company, Sydney, Australia . . . ' I soon learned that the building was part of an abandoned coconut plantation."

"I stayed at the plantation house five days. On the sixth day I gathered some limes and oranges and started traveling again. In the distance I could see the tip of a large island, with the peak of a mountain rising above the clouds. I decided to make this island my next objective."

"When I landed I soon found that I had made another bad move. I found no life; only cliffs and mountains. However, there was plenty of fresh water—my first in approximately 27 days."

"I finally decided that I would retrace my steps and try to make it back to the first island on which I landed. I started out the next morning and barely made it back to the plantation house. The infection in my hand had cleared, but my foot was swollen from infection."

Prayed for Direction

"That night I planned what I decided would probably be my final attempt to contact life. I prayed to God, Almighty to send me in the right direction. Tomorrow, I decided I'll make for the other side of the big island."

"Near dusk on the fourth day, as I had barely enough strength in my arms to paddle, a storm broke and gradually I was carried out to sea. The last I remember I started to scream, and then I passed out."

"I was told later that a high wind blew me into shore. When I regained consciousness I was in the arms of a native."

"You American or Jap?" the native inquired in his best pidgin English.

"I'm American," I told him.

"American, you good," he replied.

"Those were the best words I believe I have ever heard in my life. I knew then that I had been rescued."

"I couldn't walk. My rescuer carried me to his hut not far from the beach. I asked the date and he told me it was May 15. When I told him I had been lost since April 13—32 days—he hardly believed me. He told me that white men could not live that long on the sea and in the jungle. The native was a converted Seventh Day Adventist. He had been taught English by missionaries."

"I felt stronger the next day. By the third day I was able to walk once more. They decided to take me in a canoe to their village, where I was given American food—canned meat and potatoes. On the second day in the village the infection in my foot was lanced."

"During my stay in the native village I was stricken with malaria. I was given 'queene,' native name for quinine. My body was bathed in fresh water and lime. Within five days the fever disappeared. While with the natives I regained 20 of the 40 pounds I had lost. When I arrived at the native village I weighed about 115 pounds."

"On the 72nd day after I had parachuted into the sea, a navy rescue plane landed off shore near the native village."

Gunner Attempts To Bring Home Crippled Bomber

"Twelve fighter pilots of my squadron had been out on a routine escort mission. We were sent to escort a group of marine dive bombers on a foray against the Jap-held airfield at Munda and were returning to Henderson on Guadalcanal."

Major R. L. Vrooman, U. S. M. C., was telling a group of fighter pilots about Sgt. Gilbert Henze, an 18-year-old gunner from State Center, Iowa. "Somehow in the fracas I got separated from my formation," went on the major. "As I headed homeward I received a radio warning that one of our dive bombers was in trouble."

"I found it a good mile south of me at about 5,000 feet. The pilot hanging half way out of the bomber's cockpit, his helmet gone, his clothes ripped to shreds.

"I asked by radio, is your pilot alive?"

"I don't know sir," he answered, "we got hit by a burst of shrapnel about 20 minutes ago, and he has been that way ever since."

"Can you, or have you ever flown a plane?"

"No sir," he answered.

"Do you think that you can keep her level and follow my instructions?"

"Yes sir, I sure can try."

"The first thing I want you to do then is to release that 1,000 pound bomb."

Can't Release Bomb

"I can't release it sir, it can only be done from the front cockpit."

"I peered anxiously ahead. Below and just visible lay the shoreline of Guadalcanal. If we could make it I could signal for a crash boat or any kind of a boat and then if I could get the kid to follow my instructions I would try to bring him in by water. Then I heard the kid shout over his radio, 'My engine just sputtered then, sir. She must be out of gas.'"

"That's the last word I heard over my radio for suddenly it too went dead."

"I could see the kid working frantically on the stick as the bomber went into a sickening glide."

"With my radio dead I frantically signaled for the kid to jump."

"If he saw me he failed to notice. Then I saw his head and shoulders emerge from the cockpit. I saw him clutching for his rip-cord. Suddenly I saw his body, parachute and all, shoot upward as the trailing edge of the plane hit him. No man could live under such an impact."

"I followed the chute downward in tight circles. I could see a huge vent in the shrouds. The kid's body dangled from the harness."

"A few minutes later it hit the water with a splash."

"I brought my plane within a few feet of the water. As I passed over the spot where the kid had fallen all I could see was his yellow 'Mae West.'"

"As I headed for home I prayed that the kid was unconscious when he hit, at least this would spare him any suffering before he drowned."

"I happened to be sitting by our radio a few days later. A flier had been picked up by some friendly natives. He was conscious when found, and though suffering from multiple wounds and fractures, had a better than 50-50 chance to survive."

"I learned later that the tail of the plane had severed his right leg below the knee."

(Editor's note: Sergeant Henze was returned to the States and died at the U. S. naval hospital, Mare Island, California. He was buried at Hillside cemetery, State Center, Iowa.)

MRS. WILKINS ENTERTAINS GROUP

Mrs. E. L. Wilkins, Woman's Chairman of 3rd War Loan Campaign, entertained approximately 20 guests last Friday afternoon at tea when those who had worked so faithfully with her in this 3rd War Bond drive were her guests at her home on Margie St. Besides the ladies, present, the County Chairman, Mr. H. C. Calhoun, and Mr. B. C. Adams, Chairman of the 3rd War Loan Campaign in Grenada County were guests.

Short talks were made by several of the ladies and by Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Adams. Elsewhere in this issue will be a statement concerning sales as made by the Woman's Division.

The splendid work done by the ladies is highly important as it was the ladies who found the citizens who had comparative small amounts to invest, and their sales ran well over one hundred thousand dollars.

KING-HAYES

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hayes, of Skeene, Miss., are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Hayes, to Roy King, Jr. The wedding was September 10 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Treadway. Dr. Treadway, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Cleveland, officiated.

Mrs. King wore a soldier blue crepe suit with navy blue accessories. Her flowers were shoulder bouquet of pink roses and tuberoses.

Mrs. King, a graduate of the Skeene, Miss., Consolidated School, is a former student of the Delta State Teachers College.

Mr. King, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy King, of Vance, Miss., is a former student of Mississippi State College.

Mr. and Mrs. King were honored with a reception given by Mrs. W. H. Hiltburn, Mrs. L. I. Myers and Mrs. A. R. Mann in the home of Mrs. A. R. Mann at Skeene.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. King will go to their home near Grenada, Miss., where Mr. King has farming interests.

ATTENTION P. T. A.!

Local membership drive of the Parent Teacher Association will take place between October 1st and 13th. Every mother, father, and friend of school children is urged to purchase a 60c membership in Grenada P. T. A. which is a most worthy organization. Mrs. Charles Lea, National Field Secretary who spoke to the Grenada group recently, urged that an intensive drive be made to secure members, and by so doing, not only would Grenada Chapter have more influence but the State P. T. A. would have greater influence with the legislative bodies of the State in securing higher salaries for the Mississippi school teachers. Mississippi pays her school teachers about $500 per year and the nation's average is approximately $1300.00 per year.

ROBINSON SPARKS GRENADA TO 19-0 WIN OVER WINONA

Led by their galloping left half-back, Guy Robinson, the Grenada Bulldogs took their first conference game Friday night by downing Winona 19 to 0 on the latter's home field.

Jones started Grenada's scoring in the first quarter when he bucked the line for one yard and the touchdown, after the Bulldog backs had brought the ball down the field with their tricky reverse plays. Robinson passed to Barranco for the extra point. Robinson showed his running ability taking the ball on his own 32, he loped 51 yards around right end to Winona's off right tackle for the score. Towne charged through the line for the extra point. The Bulldogs' last touchdown came in the last quarter, as a result of Robinson's passing and Barranco's running. Robinson set up the scoring chance by completing a 25 yard pass to Barranco. Two plays later Barranco scooted through left tackle for the score. His try for the extra point failed.

Winona was held in the middle of the field during most of the game by the fast changing Grenada line which was led by the Moss Twins, Spears, Dogan and Trout. The Winona team had a tricky passing attack but they never seriously threatened the Bulldogs' goal.

On Friday night, October 1, the Bulldogs will play host to Vardaman at Proby Field, 8 o'clock.

"It's great to know you're helping!"

"Sure, I know I'm too young to carry a gun and be a Ranger like brother Bill, but I'm helping all the same in every way I know how. Dad told me the other night about the need for cutting down my local 'phone calls. He said that every telephone line was needed so badly by Uncle Sam that every call I didn't make would help win the war."

"Gee, I didn't know my calls would make any difference, but they sure do. Dad says telephone lines and switchboards are so crowded now that every call I make, to be dead sure it's important. Mom and Dad, and Sister and the maid, and the whole gang of kids in my neighborhood are now doing a lot less telephoning. Believe me, I want brother Bill back home, and if cutting down on my 'phone calls will help bring him back—it's sure okay with me."

"How about you? Will you help, too? I bet you will."

"Grenada County News A Specialty. Other News Used Only In Emergency"

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

Penny Wise, Pound Foolish

These red tickets that are being placed on cars that are parked wrong are making people as mad as hell, even though they are technical violators of the law.

How much better it would be if, when a car is parked wrong, a polite notice to this effect, "Your car is parked wrong in this respect. Please do not do this again," be given, than to hale the criminal (?) before the city authorities and extract a dollar.

I personally saw and heard the reaction of one man who found a red ticket on his car which was parked on the wrong side of the street (a practice, according to him, that he had made hundreds of times before). This man has spent tens of thousands of dollars in this community and most likely will spend much more SOMEWHERE, but not in Grenada, for he said he was not coming back to Grenada, and would even have his suit come to him from another nearby post office.

One merchant reported that a good many of his country customers said they were not coming back to Grenada except in emergencies.

While Grenada SHOULD cultivate the people in its legitimate trade territory against the day when all of this "easy" money is no more, it, through this red tag business, is burning its bridges.

I am not against the enforcement of traffic laws, for they should be enforced; but I do think that the criminals (?) should receive polite warnings before red tags (which color antagonizes every animal, including the human animal) are attached to the cars.

We are indeed being penny wise and pound foolish.

Pre-Pearl Harbor Fathers

Since the testimony of the high ranking officials of the Army and Navy that a postponement of drafting Pre-Pearl Harbor fathers would seriously interfere with the tactical plans of the armed forces, it is highly probable that the Congress will pass the Wheeler bill (postponing the beginning of induction of this class until January 1) and it is most highly probable that the drafting of men of this class will begin on October 1, as scheduled.

It looks hard, of course, for fathers to be separated from their children, yet how much better it would be for these fathers to help win the victory than to see their country go down in defeat and see their children enslaved by aliens. We are in a war, the fierceness and intensity of which the world has never before known. America is up against implacable enemies who can be conquered only by superiority of men and material. Then, it should be remembered that fathers have MORE to protect than single men who form the bulk of the present military establishment.

A healthy Pre-Pearl Harbor father, in my opinion, might as well make up his mind to volunteer or, as an alternative, get into some kind of vital war-work which, after all, is just as essential to victory as the efforts of the men on the firing line.

Most draft boards have scraped the bottom of the barrel getting suitable single men, and it is inevitable that they must start calling fathers, and soon.

Be Sports, Boys

If each of the six aldermen and the mayor would come forward and sign the petition asking for an election on the subject of changing the City Charter to permit the Board, at its own discretion, to raise the taxes five mills, they would show themselves to be good sports; and, at the same time, show that they wish the people to act upon a matter so important to each and every taxpayer.

Speaking Of Petitions

After the petition asking an election on the proposed Charter change has been signed by so many people that the Board will forget the whole matter, it might be timely for the citizens of Grenada, like the citizens of Elliott, to petition the Board of Supervisors for permission to give up the Charter, and let the Board of Supervisors operate Grenada. The supervisors have reduced the county debt by one-half in eight or ten years, while the City debt has soared. The county has reduced taxation, while the city is seeking permission to raise taxes by five mills. The county assessment values are, by and large, half what the City assessment values are.

Tribute To Mrs. Kahn

The following is a tribute paid the late Mrs. Henry Kahn, of Duck Hill, by Mr. Hurd Horton, of Grenada:

Now comes the night, long shadows creep across my door,

While from within, familiar sounds that come no more.

My hearth is cold, 'tis chilly and damp

There is no glow about my lamp,

Which at this hour was always lit

Besides my chair, where I would sit,

And watch the sparks as they would fly

Towards God's dear Heaven, away up high.

While bits of song, sung soft and low,

Came sweetly through the open door.

And there I sat in full content

While about her tasks my help-mate went.

The shadows grow, now reach the stairs,

No falling foot steps greet me there.

I hear no more the songs of old,

The sweetest story ever told.

About my house there seems no life,

Since Angela came and took my wife.

But left within my saddened heart,

Memories dear that ne'er will part.

For, when I, too, am freed of pain,

I know I'll hear her song again.

The City Charter

Pa Whitaker—he's all on fire.

The board of aldermen done stirred his ire.

Ma Whitaker—she tried to get him calm;

She purred a bit and quoted Psalm.

But Pa says, "Mabel, my word upon it,

I'll smash your bonnet,

If I hear you backin' up THIS FIVE MILL RAISE!"

"Aw, says Ma, Our board are handsome men,

And if they want to raise their pay again,

We'd better keep ourselves out of this fray.

You've had to raise our printers' pay,

And Harry Greenfield's strayed away.

Let's take a back seat,

And leave the dirty work for Henry Ray!"

Pa rapped the desk in rampant rage.

"This GCW belongs to me,

And all the folks, my sentiments shall see,

Blared out upon the bold front page."

"Go on, says Ma,

Just put your head right in the lion's mouth!

If it ain't the war or ain't the drought,

It's the CITY DEBT you're yellin' about!"

—Lady Byron.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Plan Day's Meals Using Basic Seven As Your Guide

Utilize a little bit of meat with vegetables and tuck under a flavorful, flaky piecrust and serve the family a meat pie. All vegetables and meat are served in one casserole and save serving dishes.

Is there a blueprint or plan for making menus? That's a question homemakers frequently put to the food experts. Yes, there is. Suppose you are given a list of foods to be included in your daily diets, a sort of general plan that you can adapt to every day's needs. Can you make out your menus? Here is the blueprint:

Group I. Green and yellow vegetables. At least one of each kind should be included daily to meet vitamin and mineral requirements of the diet.

Group II. At least one serving of oranges, grapefruit or tomatoes to get enough Vitamin C in the diet. A good time to get this requirement in is during breakfast—with the fruit.

Group III. Potatoes or other fruit and vegetables to add more minerals and vitamins to the diet.

Group IV. Milk or milk products. This may be in the form of milk (1 pint per day for adults, 1 quart for children), fresh or evaporated, and cheese.

Group V. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs or dried beans, peas, nuts or peanut butter. This group is needed to build and repair body tissue.

Group VI. Bread, flour and cereals are required to meet energy needs and the vitamin B needs of the body. Be sure that any of these that you use are whole-grain, enriched or restored. You would have to eat four times as much ordinary bread, for example, to get as much nutritional value as one loaf of enriched bread contains.

Group VII. Butter or fortified margarine. Use some of either every day to give energy and vitamin A. That's the plan. Use food out of every group, every day.

The best way to divide the groups into three balanced meals will run something like this:
For breakfast: Citrus fruit, cereal, eggs, milk or beverage, toast.
For lunch or dinner: Meat (poultry or fish, etc.), vegetable in either group I or III, milk or milk products.
For dinner or supper: Meat, poultry or fish, vegetable or fruit from groups I, II, or III. Milk or milk product, and also bread and butter from groups VI and VII.

An easy way to plan the menus is to write down the foods and the corresponding number of the group of food from which it comes. If you do not use one or two of the groups during one meal, pick them up at the next. No chance for slips, here! Keep one eye on the plan and the other on the ration books while doing.

Lynn Says:

What they do: The basic seven food requirements are so made up as to take care of the body's demand for certain types of food. For example, proteins, minerals and water are all essential to building torn parts of the body and keeping them in repair. They are needed for tissues, bones, muscles, blood and other fluids.

Energy for breathing, heart action, circulation of the blood, and other bodily functions is supplied by fuel foods—foods rich in fats and sugar.

To keep up the body's resistance to disease, to keep it in good running order, is the function of regulation and protective foods—these are the vitamins, minerals, water and roughage.

ing this and you can meet the requirements of both.

Now, here is some concrete help to stretch those red points:

*Sausage and Succotash Pie. (Serves 4 to 6)

1 pound pork sausage meat
3 cups cooked, dried or fresh lima beans
1½ to 2 cups cooked corn
2 tablespoons red pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons shortening
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk

Lightly fry sausage. Drain well. Combine with vegetables. Make white sauce by blending flour in to melted shortening. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened. Season, then add to meat mixture. Pour into baking dish. Top with pastry. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) 30 to 40 minutes.

Pork and Apple Turnovers. (Makes 4 to 6)

Combine 1 cup chopped apple with 1 cup chopped cooked pork. Roll pastry thin and cut in 6-inch squares. Heap half of square with pork and apple mixture. Fold over diagonally. Moisten edges and press together. Prick top. Bake in a hot oven 30 to 40 minutes.

These ham and asparagus cutlets give a new twist to congenial and favorite foods:

Stuffed Pancake Rolls, Ham and Asparagus Cutlets or Hamburgers are low in point-value but give plenty of zip and stick-to-the-ribs quality to your meals. Have them often to give variety to menus.

Ham and Asparagus Cutlets. (Serves 6)

1½ cups cooked, chopped asparagus
1½ cups sliced, boiled ham
½ cup fine bread crumbs
2 tablespoons shortening
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Mix asparagus with ham and crumbs. Melt shortening, blend in flour. Stir in milk. Cook until thick. Add to first mixture, season to taste. Chill. Shape mixture to resemble chops. Dip in crumbs, then egg diluted with water, again in crumbs. Heat enough fat in skillet to cover bottom of skillet generously. Fry cutlets slowly until golden brown. Serve with Cheese Sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons shortening, blend in 2 tablespoons flour, stir in 1½ cups milk. Add 1½ cups grated cheese. Cook until cheese melts.

Stuffed Pancake Rolls. (Serves 4 to 6)

2 cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 beaten egg
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1½ cups chopped cooked ham
1 cup leftover gravy
¼ cup grated cheese
Sift dry ingredients. Stir in egg, milk and shortening. Melt enough fat in skillet to cover bottom. Make 6 large thin pancakes 5 inches across. Brown on both sides. Mix meat with gravy. Heap meat in center of each pancake. Roll up. Sprinkle with cheese. Heat in oven until cheese melts.

Savory Cabbage. (Serves 6)

Shred 1 small head of cabbage into 3 tablespoons of fat in a skillet, cover and cook slowly 15 minutes. Add 1 cup cubed salami or cervelat, salt and pepper and heat thoroughly.

Spinach.
Cook late spinach with bacon rind cut in snippets. Buying slab bacon with rind saves points.

Greens.
Chop 2 cups cooked greens with 1 tablespoon onion juice, 2 tablespoons horseradish, ¼ cup sour cream, salt and pepper. Serve on toast with crisp bacon.

Potato Salad.
Add 1 tablespoon ripe dill seeds to potato salad and serve cold with sliced tongue.

STEARNS' ELECTRIC RAT & ROACH PASTE

Skip Bombing

By Henry F. Pringle

(WAFU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly.)

American fliers used a new, secret and devastating method of aerial attack in the Battle of the Bismarck Sea, in which 22 Jap ships were sunk, 15,000 soldiers and an unknown number of sailors killed.

Soon afterward it sank German and Italian vessels in the Mediterranean. On land, the new technique speeded the Axis rout in North Africa, although the details of this later triumph must still remain a secret.

The Japanese never knew what hit them in the Bismarck sea; in any event all were dead, and dead men send in no intelligence reports—not even to the sun-god in Tokyo. They certainly did not know that the debacle was the result of experiments at an army air force proving ground in Florida, of painstaking research by experts of the ordnance branch of the army service forces and of combat testing in the Aleutians and the South Pacific.

All that they knew was that planes—both bombers and fighters—reared in for a kill at insanely low altitudes. They twisted and turned as they came in on the target. They dropped no torpedoes, so they were not torpedo planes. Yet they dropped something with amazing precision, and it was powerful enough to send transports and warships to the bottom.

What the American fliers did, it may now be told, was to use the technique which has been called skip bombing. The correct name for it is minimum altitude bombing.

Usually Missed Target

Considerable inaccurate information has been circulated about skip bombing, since details of the Bismarck sea battle began to leak out. Bombs dropped by an airplane flying fast at very low altitudes have always skipped—just like stones thrown across the millponds of our youth. Bombs from higher altitudes pointed downward, naturally, and were guided to the target by their fuses. Nearer to the ground there was no time for this. The bombs maintained the line of flight. They skipped across the ground or water and back into the air. They usually missed the target.

About a year ago it dawned on some officers at the Florida proving ground that this disadvantage might be turned into an asset. The fliers were not thinking about sinking Axis ships. What they wanted to do was to work out some bombing method which would stop tanks.

A tank is almost invisible from thousands of feet in the air and is virtually impossible to hit. But today's fast fighter planes are projectiles in themselves. It occurred to Brig. Gen. Grandison Gardner, proving ground commandant, that a plane might come in just above the ground at a very high speed, point itself at the tank and then drop a bomb. The bomb would continue to plunge forward and would, so General Gardner reasoned, hit the tank.

There were bugs in the notion, as he was due to learn. One of the bugs was that the bomb sometimes skipped clean over the tank. Later, when the idea was expanded to attacking ships, the bomb not infrequently hit the water and bounced over the ship. It would be necessary, General Gardner knew, to stop this skipping or to guide it. A delayed fuse would also have to be developed, so that the explosion would not wreck the attacking plane when real, instead of dummy bombs were used.

Perfecting a delayed fuse for the bombs was easy enough, but keeping the bombs from skipping over the target—when dropped at 10, 20, or 50 feet at 300 miles per hour—was far more difficult. So was working out the method of sighting.

The details of this, too, cannot yet be disclosed. This much may be said: It is so simple that a pilot in a single-seater can hit a tank, a moving train or a ship and can correct his aim at the last second. Behind the method lay interminable calculations and experiments. About a year after work had started, the new method of bombing had proved its worth beyond question.

No special bombs are required. One can vary from 250 to 500-pound bombs for tanks; 500 to 1,000 pounds for unarmored merchant vessels; and up to 1,000 and 2,000 pounders for battleships. Moreover, almost any type of plane will do except those that are heavy and slow.

Mortality, thus far, has been extremely low because the attacking plane can shift its course at will until three seconds before releasing the bomb. Moreover, the pilot is flying so low that larger anti-aircraft guns, difficult to depress, cannot hit him at the range involved.

Spending $5,000,000 a Day

Sending $5,000,000 a day to dependents of our fighting men is typical of the tasks which make the Office of Dependency Benefits at Newark, N. J., one of the busiest spots in America. Its 10,000 hustling employees speed miles of mechanical processes and recordings to get Uncle Sam's green checks to families throughout the nation. Applications flow in at the rate of 12,000 a day. Only a year old, this rapidly growing office has had an exhilarating effect on the Newark post office. There, since O. D. B. began to function, every day is a "Christmas rush." Great mailbags of government checks keep moving out, while huge volumes of mail, applications for payments, queries, etc., keep pouring in.

The work of the O. D. B. is not simply a matter of writing out so many checks and sticking them in the mails. For there are those who would take money from the men who are fighting for America by making illegal applications for dependency benefits. Few, if any, get away with it because all applications are thoroughly investigated and long rows of clerks read every piece of mail.

CIRCULAR SORTER—Above: A high speed machine used by the O. D. B. for quickly sorting completed authorizations.

BRIG. GEN. HAROLD N. GILBERT, left, is director of the O. D. B. His 27 years of army experience have given him first hand knowledge of a soldier's problems. He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal, and the Purple Heart.

SCHOOL—New employees take courses to prepare for their duties and to become acquainted with the machinery and operations of the agency. O. D. B. is the largest mail order business ever operated anywhere.

Fifty-three per cent of the cars on highways continue to waste rubber, for officials report that that number continues to be driven over 35 mph. A year ago 91 per cent of the cars traveled faster than the rubber conservation limit.

There is always time for Courtesy...

WAR business makes heavy demands on Illinois Central services. That is true of all American railroads. There seem not to be enough hours in the day to do everything that must be done. Thousands of our people are with the colors. Those who "hold the line" at home are working harder than they have ever worked before.

But there is always time for courtesy.

Cordial service has long been a standard of this railroad. There is no occasion to abandon that standard now. The transportation of millions of passengers and millions of tons of freight does not alter the fact that each passenger, each shipper, is entitled to the cordiality which makes Illinois Central service complete.

A railroad depends upon travelers and shippers for its existence. Today's demand for transportation is sometimes greater than the supply, but that doesn't diminish our appreciation of your patronage. Pleasantness is part of our product. Cordiality should be a factor in every transaction. Such is the firm belief of the Illinois Central family of railroads.
